

LOUIS KELLER RECEIVED HIS SENTENCE TODAY FOR MURDER OF MRS. HISCHE

AGED PRISONER SENT TO STATE PRISON BY JUDGE GRIMM THIS AFTERNOON AFTER PLEADING GUILTY TO MURDER.

GLAD TO PLEAD GUILTY

Details of the Crime For Which Prisoner Must Probably End His Days in Waupun—Was a Tailor by Trade—Lived Here Many Years.

Pleading guilty to the charge of murdering Johanna Hische on the night of June 21st, Louis Keller was this afternoon sentenced to life imprisonment in Waupun by Judge Grimm in the circuit court. The judge pointed out that the sentence might be lightened if the state parole board saw fit.

Keller's sentence today came following his statement that he desired to plead, made to the District Attorney on Monday. He stated in the conference then that he was an old man and that any sentence which he might receive would be a life sentence. He declared then that he would reach eighty years in September and that he had no desire to impose an expensive trial on the county. He was hopeful that by pleading guilty he might be saved a sentence for life imposed by the court which he seemed to expect dreadfully.

Accordingly arrangements were made as soon as possible to have Keller change his plea and announcement was made yesterday that everything was completed for receiving his sentence today. It came exactly seventy-one days after the crime of killing Mrs. Johanna Hische occurred.

CHRONOLOGY OF HISCHE MURDER.

Tuesday, June 27, 10:00 a. m., jury visits scene of murder.

At 11:00 a. m. coroner's jury brings verdict amounting to first degree murder charge against Keller.

Tuesday, Aug. 15, Judge Grimm appoints Thomas S. Nolan to aid in prosecution.

Monday, Aug. 28, Keller after conference with District Attorney decides to plead guilty.

Wednesday, Aug. 30, arrangements made for Keller's appearance for sentence today.

LOUIS KELLER AND CHIEF APPELBY.

on the evening of Wednesday, June 21.

The spectacle of a man eighty years old, enfeebled by long years of struggle and toil, standing before the bar of justice charged with so serious an offense, was pathetic. Throughout the time spent in the county jail he had brooded over the crime and desiring that his fate might be decided as soon as possible, determined to end anxiety and plead guilty. He stated to his attorney, John L. Fisher, that he would at least have something to do when he began his term at Waupun.

Louis Keller was born in Danaburg, Germany, in 1832. While he was a young boy he left his home to cross the ocean to America, where brighter prospects, he believed, were awaiting him. He landed in New York and there he learned his trade of tailor. He worked in a shop in the metropolis for many years laboring hard and industriously, and later in his life he moved to the west, working at his trade at various cities. In St. Louis he lost his wife and two children died in infancy.

He came to Janesville from Chicago about twenty years ago, and had lived here continuously since that time. Keller is entirely alone in this country or in Germany as far as he knows. During his stay in Janesville he has lived very quietly, practicing his trade and living at boarding houses or in private homes. He has never been previously charged with crime, and has been a harmless law abiding citizen until the affair of last June.

In a conversation with Keller he seemed to be rather looking forward to his future life in the state prison. He stated that he would be glad to have something to do to occupy his mind and hopes to practice his trade during his confinement there.

He seemed resigned to his fate and talked freely regarding the plea, the case which prisoners received the most in charge and other details of state's institution.

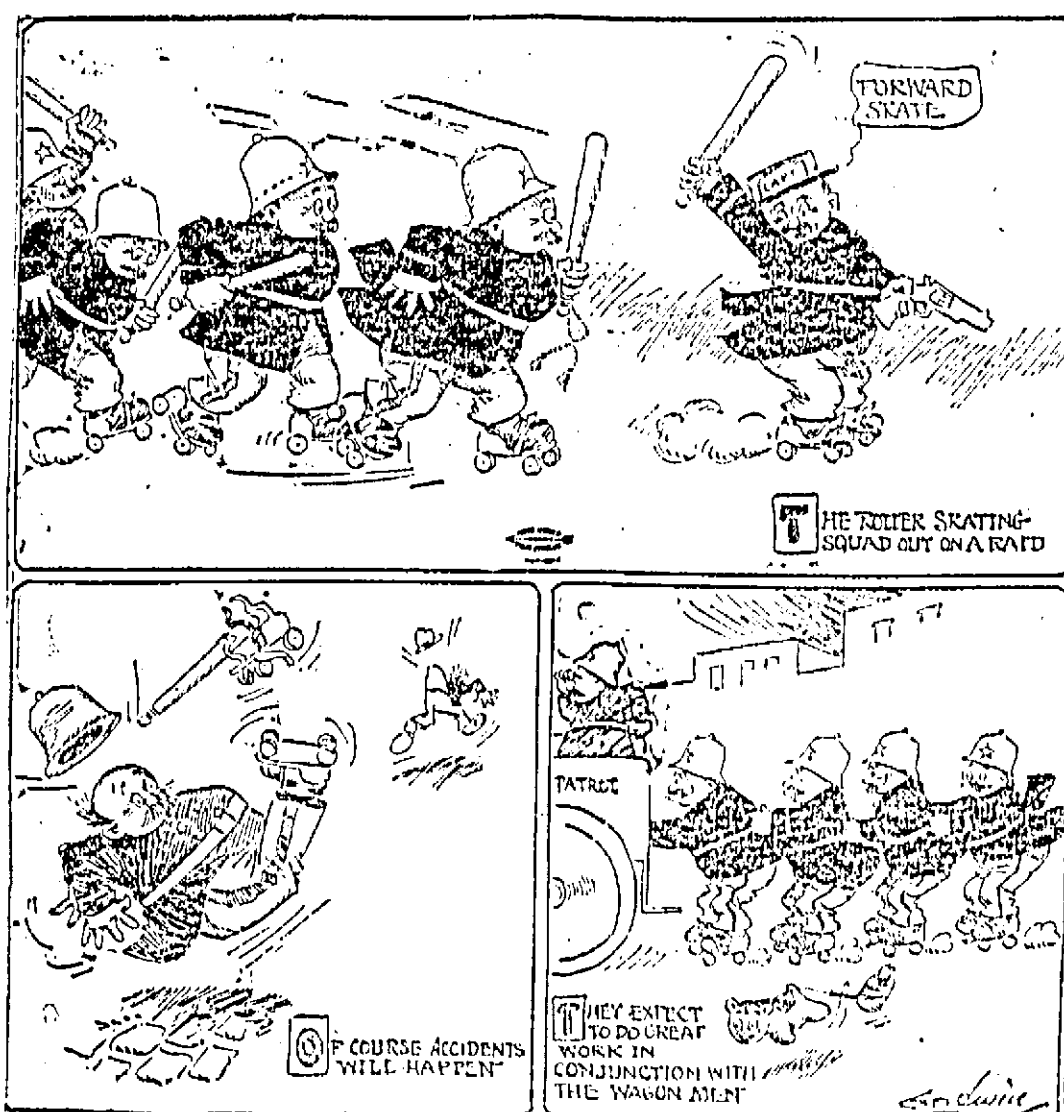

He rather jokingly stated, "I will be in better company here, perhaps, bankers, lawyers and others of that kind will be there."

He again stated that he thought his course had been the correct one. The state would be saved the expense of a trial and he would escape the worry and anxiety. He had practically no other place to go and felt confident that he would be cared for and looked after at Waupun. He was interested in the fact that the prison possessed a library, held church services, and cared for the inmates' wants.

Fairly cheerful and talkative when interviewed this morning, the old man stated that he was in the best of health. He was grateful to the Sheriff and Turnkey and all connected with the county jail for many kindnesses and attentions which he had been accorded. "They are all good people," he said, "and have treated me very kindly."

The crime for which Keller was today sentenced was committed on the evening of June 21, about half past nine o'clock. This trouble with the Hisches arose over the matter of the sale of his shop to Fred Hische some time ago and regarding payment for the same by supplying Keller with beer. It appears that Keller had been asked to come up to the Hisches' home, 1411 South Third street on the night of the murder. He arrived there shortly after Mrs. Hische and daughter, Catherine, had returned from downtown, where they had attended a moving picture show and had been accompanied by Mr. Hische from his tailor shop.

The story goes that when the

UNEMPLOYED FLOCK TO WASHINGTON TO THE BIG MEETING

Men Without Work, Hoboes and All Classes of Unemployed Men Gathering in Capital For Big Convention Tomorrow.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Washington, D. C., Aug. 31.—The balance of the migratory population of the United States has become seriously disturbed during the last few weeks and slowly but persistently its center has moved in the direction toward the national capital. Thanks to the favorable weather conditions walking was good on the roads leading to Washington and this fact, combined with the good humor and charitable disposition of the farmers, looking forward to bumper crops, enabled the thousands of self-constituted delegates to the big convention of the "Brotherhood of the Unemployed," which will open its session here tomorrow, to travel in comparative comfort. Many of the "delegates" who were too tired to walk or wished to study railroad conditions, traveled by rail, as the uninvited guests of the various railroad companies and every train arriving in the District of Columbia brought its contingent of delegates.

Not since "General" Coxey led his army of unemployed to the national capital years ago has there been so big a gathering of this particular brand of men in Washington as is promised for the first four days of September, during which time the convention will be in session. The delegates who have already arrived or who are still on the way to this city in answer to the call issued by James Davis How, who is called the chairman throughout the country as the "millionaire hobo," are by no means all tramps.

There are a great many among them who really want work, but are at present unemployed. James Davis How, who is called the chairman of the national committee of the unemployed, is a humanitarian with strong sympathies for the "underdog." Although his ideas and schemes for the betterment of the existence of fortune's neglected stepchildren are, in many respects, visionary and utopian, they have their practical and unquestionably serious aspects.

Chairman How takes himself and the movement at the head of which he stands, its methods and its aims, with perfect seriousness. The national gathering, which will be formally opened tomorrow, is intended by him not only as a demonstration against existing labor conditions and economic faults of the industrial systems of the United States, but as a means for remedying these faulty conditions. Vice President Sherman and a number of United States senators and members of the House of Representatives of Congress have been invited to attend the sessions of the convention and to deliver addresses bearing upon the subjects to be considered by the gathering.

According to the plans of the organizer of the movement an effort will be made to strengthen the organization of the unemployed so as to give greater weight to their demands. It is expected that the convention will pass a series of resolutions demanding that Congress pass, without delay, a number of laws. Among the measures to be demanded will be laws for the establishment of national employment bureaus; free transportation to the job; the shortening of the working hours; the establishment of a minimum wage; in order that the lives of the millions of the unemployed "may be sustained until the establishment of the industrial republic, in which all workers will receive the full product of their toil."

Although the majority of the delegates attending the gathering are men, there are also a few women among the ranks of the unemployed. Corn D. Harvey of Chicago, known throughout the West as a shams and settlement worker, is the secretary of the national committee of the unemployed and Josephine Weston of Milwaukee is a prominent speaker of the same committee. Both are expected to deliver addresses before the convention.

STORM RAGES ON ATLANTIC COAST; DOES MUCH DAMAGE

Philadelphia, Aug. 31.—Philadelphia and the vicinity of Delaware, New Jersey is being swept by one of the heaviest rainstorms of recent years.

Railroad and trolley traffic is greatly hampered by washouts.

In this city considerable damage was done by sewers overflowing and flooding cellars.

BEATTIE ON STAND TO DEFEND HIMSELF IN TRIAL TOMORROW

Alleged Wife Murderer Will Take Stand At Opening of Trial Friday. —Strong Evidence For Defense.

(BY UNITED PRESS.)

Chesterfield Courthouse, Va., Aug. 31.—It was announced this afternoon that Henry C. Beattie, alleged wife murderer would take the stand in his own defense at the opening of the trial tomorrow. The strongest card yet shown for the defense of the prisoner came today when E. F. Nohr, a paper mill superintendent testified that the Sunday before the killing Paul Beattie was at his post as a bridge watchman, carrying a single barreled shot gun. Paul Beattie had insisted he gave the gun to his cousin Henry, the accused man, on Saturday night.

Refuting Testimony. Chesterfield Courthouse, Va., Aug. 31.—It was settled definitely today that Henry Beattie will not plead insanity to escape punishment for the murder of his wife.

Harry M. Smith, the prisoner's chief counsel, made this announcement. "We are well satisfied with the trend of events," he said. A driving rain delayed opening of the trial again today.

OFFICIALS BLAMED FOR FIGHT RIOTS

First Bout Held Under New State Law Proves To Be Unlawful in the Extreme.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

New York, Aug. 31.—Emphatic protests against the management of the Wells-Brown fight, in the last night, poured in today to the police, now-suspended in reform organizations and to the state officials, charged with supervision boxing.

The police reserves from eleven precincts were called out to restrain the throng, which mobbed the streets about Madison Square Garden.

The bluecoats repeatedly charged the mob in riot formation and finally resorted to the expedient of closing several streets.

The trouble began with protests against the manner in which the price of tickets was being raised.

Holders of dollar tickets calling admission found a sign standing room "25.00". The price of tickets continued soar as the evening advanced.

It is charged spectators had a corner on the best seats, and police inspector McGinley, who now boxes law, which provides that the police may not enter any portion of the building where a fight is being held, for more trouble.

He said: "The whole scene was disgraceful as it was in the old days, and the old game over again, with the hands of the police tied."

Babies Parade at Asbury Park. Asbury Park, N. J., Aug. 31.—For the twenty-first consecutive year babydom today held festival holiday and high revel at Asbury Park. It was the day of the baby parade, the crowning feature of the annual carnival. Babies from every nook and corner of the country, fully 500 of them and all in the gayest raiment, paraded the ocean front and passed in review before Queen Titania and her court, who shared the honors of the day with Governor Wilson and his staff.

BEET CROP PROMISES TO BE BIG HARVEST

Outlook At the Present Time is For An Excellent Yield of Beets For Local Factory.

Everyone who planted sugar beets this year is looking forward with great expectations to the harvesting of the 1911 crop. The weather for the last few weeks has been ideal and at the present time the beets are in a fine condition, making a record breaking crop. During the beet growing season the management of the beet factory has about five hundred beet workers out through the country, taking care of the beets in the field. This year's average is far larger than that of any previous year and the production will exceed all other years by from ten to fifteen thousand tons.

In preparation for this increased amount of beets a great many improvements have been made in the factory and the capacity has somewhat increased. The factory will be ready for the harvest of the beets by the last of this week. A number of new tracks are being built near and around the factory to facilitate the handling of both beets and cane at the same time, with a mammoth storage tank for the molasses used in the manufacture of sugar in the course of construction. This tank when completed will hold several thousand barrels of molasses and will probably be ready for use this year. Mr. Echert has been made superintendent of the factory and at present it is thought that the force of last year will not be increased any.

As the crop is much further in advance than it generally is at this time of year even an early frost will not harm it and the beets will fully mature in spite of cold. In view of the fact that everything seems to be so much in favor of the beets as possible, the beet man can look forward to an exceedingly large crop this year.

SUGAR PRICES MADE DECIDED INCREASE

Granulated Reaches Highest Level in Year on the New York Market Today.

Janesville housewives are indignant over the sudden rise in granulated sugar just at this, the canning season. With fruit cheaper than for many years past, cranberries, plums and grapes plentiful, the price of sugar has gone up. A New York dispatch explains the whole situation:

New York, Aug. 31.—Grocery circles here showed concern today over the high prices now prevailing in the sugar market. There was another advance in granulated during the day, to 36.25, representing a full cent rise in the last few weeks, and the highest level in many years.

The advance is attributed primarily to a poor sugar beet crop in Europe, following prolonged drought this summer. To make matters worse, the Cuban crop, which furnishes the bulk of raw material for American refiners, also proved short, and prices began to soar.

Farsighted dealers bought large supplies some months ago, leaving the market almost bare of stock, and raw sugars in consequence have made new records. Many operators in the street predict the end is not yet in sight.

OYSTER SEASON WILL OPEN SEPTEMBER 1ST

Some Already in the Market, But Officially Sale Should Start On Friday.

The oyster season opens in Janesville on Thursday. A few have already been received in this city, but the season is not officially open until Sept. 1. The season lasts until May 1. The oyster business has been revolutionized in the last few years. More people are using oysters in Janesville, though not as great bulk is being purchased, according to dealers. This is accounted for by the different manner in which they are offered to the public. A person buying a quart of oysters now gets nothing but oysters. Formerly it was necessary to pay for the liquor in which they were shipped. A quart of oysters will go as far now as a quart formerly.

The method of shipping oysters has been greatly improved in the last year or two also. Practically all oysters are now shipped in containers with ice surrounding them. Formerly the ice was thrown in with the oysters. Modern methods are considered more sanitary.

Dealers say that prices will be about the same as last year. Standard oysters are expected to retail at 50 cents a quart. Select oysters will bring 60 cents.

BUYING SEASON IS OPENED AT HARVEST WITH PRICES HIGH

Reports are Made of Crops Which Have Sold for Ten to Fifteen Cents, Approaching Prices of 1906.

Reports have been prevalent of late of sales of the 1911 tobacco crop which is now being harvested, at prices ranging from 10 to 15 cents per pound for the binder leaves. This approaches the record prices which were paid in 1906 when the crop was nearly all bought up in the field at prices which were the highest for a number of years.

The crop this season has proved to be very small in many sections where there has been no hail and the grasshoppers and other pests have not rid the leaves. Many of the dealers have very nearly cleaned up their supply of old goods and this may partially account for the tendency to boost prices for the new crop. It is a noticeable fact, however, that the high figures are not offered for the fields regarded less of quality, but there have been many crops which have been sold for 10 and 15 cents. In the immediate vicinity of Janesville there are very few growers that have been offered over ten cents. Several reports from Willowdale give prices at 10 to 15 cents. The surprising way in which prices have improved the crop is noted by actual measurement. S. Manning, residing two miles out on Milton avenue reports many leaves 25 inches long and 16 inches wide. Other farmers in that neighborhood and all over the county report equally good size of leaves. Harvesting is well under way at present more than half the crop is in the shed at the present time. How much of the crop has been contracted for is difficult to state but a very small per cent is actually, it is estimated. There are many farmers who will not consider an offer until the plants are nearly cured and buyers are generally better satisfied to wait until that time, or after stripping. However, when the buying fever strikes the buyers the year sometimes carried away with the fear that they will not come in for their share of the crop.

THIRTY-FIVE TO BE TAKEN INTO ORDER

Larns Class Will be Initiated by Local Division of A. O. H. Next Wednesday Evening.

On next Wednesday evening a class of thirty-five will be initiated into membership in the local division of the Ancient Order of Hibernians at their hall in the Carle block. Joseph P. Callan of Milwaukee, state president of the order, James J. Regan of St. Paul, national president, and Prof. M. G. Robbin of Milwaukee, chairman of the literary movement, will be here for the initiation and will deliver addresses before the meeting. After the initiatory work a banquet will be served. Members of division have been invited from Madison, Milwaukee, Racine and Kenosha and a number of outside guests will be present at the celebration. A musical entertainment will be given following the banquet. After this initiation, the Janesville division will be the second largest in the state, with a membership of two hundred. Milwaukee has the largest membership in the country, with 900.

Vanilla Bean in England. Society women are interested in the horticultural activities of Mrs. Joseph Chamberlain, who is cultivating in her garden several vanilla bean vines. The vine is delicate and fragrant and has a commercial value. It is a terrestrial parasite and grows on almost any kind of tree, lighting up the roughest and most attractive bark with its dainty festoons of leaves and tendrils. The beans form early, and even the least experienced amateur can raise the useful vanilla plant.—London Mail.

SPORTING NOTES

PENMAKERS TO PLAY ALL STAR TEAM AT LABOR DAY RACES

Parker Pen Team Will Meet Picked Nine From Commercial League At Labor Day Celebration By Carpenters' Union.

On Labor Day, September 4, some of the best talent in Janesville will participate in a baseball game at the Fair Grounds, the contest being part of the program of the celebration given by the local Carpenters' Union at the Janesville Driving Park. The Parker Pen Company's team, which won the championship of the Commercial baseball league, and was not defeated once during the season will be matched against a picked nine selected from the other teams in the league. The Penmakers got away with seven unbroken victories during the season of the league and members of the other nine think that an all star team will be able to humble the "champs" in this post-season match. The Parker Pen on the other hand are confident of winning. The teams will line up as follows:

Parker Pen: Hulton, c; Dewey, p; Hill, ss; Nohr, 1b; Sullivan, 2b; Hutter, 3b; Berger, cf; Abraham, cf; Klusky, rf.

All Stars: Brown, c; Green, p and rf; Clark, ss; Homming, 1b; MacDonald, 2b; Cronin, 3b; Elder, lf; Eckert, cf; Howard, rf and p; Ritter and Leaver, mb.

Automobile Races.

Another big feature of the events of the afternoon will be the automobile races of which there will be two. The first, a five mile event, will be for cars costing $350 and under, and the second will be a free for all race. Valuable prizes have been offered for both events and only local cars and local drivers will be entered.

Horse Racing.

Lovers of horse racing will also be given an opportunity to witness some good sport along that line at the Labor Day festivities. Two races have been arranged for and the entries classified into two classes, one for each race. Local horses and local drivers only will be listed and the fun will be lively. It is said that nearly all of the owners who took part in the matinees on the two during the winter and a number of others are planning to enter the races.

WELLS IS GIVEN VERDICT

English Champion Whips "Knockout" Drawn in Ten Rounds.

New York, Aug. 31.—In the presence of more than 12,000 spectators, Matt Wells, England's lightweight champion, made a show of "Knockout" Brown of this city in the much talked of ten-round glove battle in Madison Square Garden. Referee Charley White was unable to give a decision because of the restrictions of the state boxing commission, but if he had enjoyed such a privilege his task would have been easy. Wells was the class. These few words tell the story of Brown's defeat.

The gate receipts footed more than $30,000. It was said that Brown will receive about $9,000. Wells' bit may amount to $8,000. Wells announced after the fight that he would challenge the winner of the McFarland-Volganst battle at Milwaukee on September 15.

RESULTS IN TENNIS MATCHES YESTERDAY AT EDGERTON COURT

Drilliant Playing Marked Second Round of Championship Matches Played Yesterday. (Special to the Gazette.)

Edgerton, Aug. 31.—The second round of the city tennis championship was the scene of the most brilliant tennis. All the matches were hotly contested and the spectators, who were on hand made the players believe they were really in championship fights, in the way they applauded them.

The surprise of the day came when Lowell Whitte lost to Hieska by scores of 4-6; 6-4; 7-5; after one of the hardest kind of fight. Whitte was playing against a handicap of two points on every game, but in spite of this he put up a cool, steady game. However Hieska's victory was well earned and he played very well.

C. L. Clifton won from O. J. Jensen 7-5; 6-4; 7-5 after a brilliant contest which lasted nearly three hours. Every game went to deuce nearly, which shows how interesting it must have been for the "on-lookers".

Bardeen defeated W. McIntosh after being played in the first set losing it by score of 2-6 and winning the next 6-1. Unable to stand the pace he had set in the previous game, McIntosh fell down in the last and lost it by score of 6-2. L. C. Whitte won an easy victory over B. L. Cleary by score of 6-0; 6-1. Mahat won from Atwell in a close and exciting match 6-4; 7-5.

In what was thought to be the fastest tennis seen on the local courts, Clarence Jensen defeated Chas. McIntosh after one of the hottest kind of battles. It was a slashing game, McIntosh repeatedly sending balls back that seemed improbable to return and making some wonderfully fast drives past his man at the net. Jensen ran the first four games before his opponent scored. But it was in this instance that McIntosh started his whirlwind playing and ran the games to four all when Jensen ran the next two out and won the set 6-1.

The second set proved to be the closest where fast play featured; every game seen-sawing at deuce and each player winning their serve which were very effective at times. McIntosh finally breaking through his opponent's serve in the twenty-sixth game winning the set by score of 12-14. In the meantime the strain was beginning to tell on the players, the latter set being a trifle slower, each one inclining to be careful; after three games to his credit McIntosh lost the next six losing the set and match.

Only one single match will be played Thursday that one being between R. McIntosh and Hieska. The first round in doubles will be played and some more surprises are expected. It is planned to have the final in singles to be run off on Saturday afternoon at two o'clock and the doubles immediately after. This will mean the semi-finals will be played Friday afternoon.

Following is the schedule for the double matches: Clifton and Parr vs. Lowell Whitte and Cane, McIntosh, O. J. Jensen and W. McIntosh vs. Hieska and partner; Miller and Cleary vs. R. McIntosh and Jensen; Mubbert and Bardeen vs. Whitte and Atwell to be played Friday morning.

YACHT STRANDED ON ROCK

Harkness Party Are Prisoners on Lake Superior Coast.

Cleveland, O., Aug. 31.—Stranded on a rock on the coast of Lake Superior, the $100,000 yacht of W. L. Harkness, 3645 Euclid avenue, is holding Harkness, Mrs. Harkness, their two children and a party of guests practically prisoners. George Russell, a brother-in-law of Harkness, was notified by telephone of the wreck, and wreckers have been sent to salvage the vessel.

Lyceum Chautauqua at Winona Lake. Winona Lake, Ind., Aug. 31.—A lecture by William Jennings Bryan was the chief feature of the program for the first day of the International Lyceum association's chautauqua and convention, which will be in session here until Sept. 9. Dr. S. C. Dickey of Winona Lake opened the chautauqua with an address to which response was made by Montaville Flowers of Los Angeles, president of the association. Orchestral music varied the program. A large number of the best entertainers in the lyceum field will appear before the association during the ten days of the chautauqua, the programs being arranged as models. The convention proper opens Sept. 4.

MADERO IS PARTY'S CHOICE

Progressive Leader Nominated for Presidency of Mexico.

Mexico City, Aug. 31.—Francisco I. Madero was nominated for president of Mexico by the Constitutional Progressive party. Gen. Bernardo Reyes and his friends have started a movement to have the national elections postponed, declaring that the country is not ready to vote. General Reyes declares that too many sympathizers of Francisco I. Madero are under arms for the election to be fair. Madero declares he will not stand for postponement.

JUDGE IS BLACK HAND VICTIM

Massachusetts Jurist's Illness Follows Receipt of Chicago Threats.

Orford, N. H., Aug. 31.—Judge James D. Richardson of the Massachusetts supreme court died at his summer home here late last night.

The critical part of Judge Richardson's illness is said by members of his family to have dated to last May, when he received two Black Hand letters threatening his life following his issuance of an injunction against the Boston Photo Engravers' union.

Both "Black Hand" threats came in envelopes postmarked Chicago.

NORWAY'S ARMY IN MUTINY

Riots Result From Trouble Caused by Socialistic Propaganda.

London, Aug. 31.—Dispatches from Copenhagen and Stockholm tell of several mutinies in the Norwegian army as the result of the Socialistic propaganda. There have been serious riots. The officers are defied and soldiers confined in military prisons have been released by force. The troubles seem mostly to have arisen over dissatisfaction in the manner of punishment of offenders, which the soldiers have deemed too severe.

Roosevelt Baby Named.

San Francisco, Aug. 31.—The daughter of Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., will, it is reported, be christened Grace Green Roosevelt, after her grandmother. Many presents are arriving for the baby from all parts of the country.

SOLDER DROP BURNS CHURCH

Tinner's Carelessness Causes Destruction of Edifice in Akron, O.

Akron, O., Aug. 31.—A drop of hot solder used by tinner's ignited the roof of the First Methodist church and in half an hour the building, which cost $250,000, was gutted.

When the steeple, which was 100 feet in height, fell, hundreds of persons below had a narrow escape.

Slow Growth of Forests.

The annual growth of the forests of the United States is not more than 12 cubic feet an acre.

TRY OUT PUBLICITY LAW

Senators Martin and Swanson First to File Expense Statements.

Washington, Aug. 31.—Primary election expense statements from Senators Martin and Swanson of Virginia, the first to be filed under the new publicity law that went into effect August 19, reached the office of Secretary Bennett of the senate. In the absence of Secretary Bennett, officials of his office declined to make them public.

Following this declaration a careful examination of the new publicity law resulted in the startling disclosure that in the act, presumed to be most drastic, there is no requirement for publicity of the individual statements filed by candidates for the senate or the house of representatives.

GEN. H. C. OTIS IS ACCUSED

Charged That Los Angeles Times Published Indecent Matter.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 31.—Guy Eddie, city prosecuting attorney, filed in the University court two complaints against H. C. Otis, publisher of the Times; Harry E. Andrews, managing editor, and R. M. Whitney, telegraph editor, charging them with printing and circulating indecent matter in the Times.

AT THE PLAY HOUSES

One of the potent appeals of "The Servant in the House," which will be seen here Monday, September 4th, matinee and evening, at Myers Theatre, is its remarkable realism. Audiences lose themselves in the unfolding of the beautiful story and awake to the realities of life at the end with a sigh of regret. Commenting on the fact, Harpers Weekly says: "There is a drama so great, so compelling, so reverent, so akin to all the beautiful and permanent things of life that it is more than a play, more than a novel, more than a mere book. It is a page from life itself, revealing the brotherhood of man as a real, breathing thing, showing how impossible has become possible." According to the critics, "Not in a life-time has such a wonderful play been created."

Arctic Ice. Cold water thrown on the ice of the arctic regions will crack it, just as boiling water will crack a piece of glass. This is because the ice is so much colder than water.

Defect in Chinese Voice. The Chinese voice lacks two notes—its scale has six notes instead of eight. The fourth and seventh notes are the missing ones.

PROSPECTIVE MAJOR LEAGUERS. A bunch of players sold to the major league clubs for delivery next spring.

St. Louis, Mo.—No other Class A club in the country, it is believed, will send more players to the majors this year than will the St. Joseph club in the Western league. Five players have already been sold to major league clubs for delivery next spring and there is every reason to believe that one of the other members of the team will be drafted. Four of the men sold go to the Chicago American League club while the other was purchased by the Brooklyn Nationals. Barney Kelly, formerly a member of the Chicago White Sox and ex-captain of the Yale University team, was sold to the Brooklyn Nationals for $2,500.

Rally was given a try-out with the White Sox when he finished his career at Yale. Not having had any professional experience, he was unable to stick in the big show at that time and he was purchased by the St. Joseph club. He has been here two years. The men sold to the Chicago White Sox and the prices they brought are as follows: Tex Jones, first baseman, $2,000; Ray Powell, outfielder, $2,500; Joe Kelly, outfielder, $2,500; and Billy Horton, infielder, $2,500.

MAIL BY FREIGHT.

An old statute permits the postal authorities to forward a certain kind of second-class mail matter by freight and the postmaster-general has decided to take advantage of it. Arrangements have been made whereby magazines and periodicals, heretofore transported in the mail cars attached to passenger trains will be carried by fast freight trains from and after September 1. It is understood that this will be generally satisfactory to publishers. They are to be permitted to print on the wrapper of each copy or bundle of their publications, as a part of the address, instructions as to the date on which delivery is to be made, and postmasters have been instructed to cooperate in efforts to make this delivery on time.

As a common sense arrangement this would seem to commend itself not only to the parties immediately concerned but to the public. Getting periodicals to press a little earlier in the month, so that ample time for their transportation by fast freight, may be allowed, will relieve the railway service of congestion that had come well high in pushing its value seriously, while at the same time eliminating great and unnecessary expense.

The railway mail clerks have had good cause for complaint with regard to the manner in which periodicals have been dumped upon them on certain days of the month. Matters had reached a point where it was not, in impossible to carry on distribution, during ordinary runs. Mail that should have been dropped at certain stations, to be transferred and dropped on the return trip, or by another car. Regular mail matter, letters and newspapers, has been increasing at a tremendous rate, demanding of itself nearly all the space and energy at the command of the railway service; nothing short of the doubling of the time of the clerks has served on occasion to keep the mails moving regularly.

Postmaster-General Hitchcock is entitled to praise for the many economies he has introduced in the postal service, and for this one, in particular. It means not only a saving to the government in actual cash, but it means also the conservation of the labor and comfort and happiness of thousands of unknown but faithful public servants.

THAT REASSESSMENT.

There is a possibility that Janesville may be relieved, not only of the expense, but from the adverse results of a reassessment. The Industrial and Commercial Club at their meeting Tuesday evening passed a resolution by which a committee was to be appointed to confer with Mr. Maxfield with a view of having him withdraw his petition for a reassessment from the Tax Commission. Mr. Maxfield has stated that he is willing to do this if the Industrial and Commercial Club will take up the matter of readjusting the taxes and look into the matter of securing a better equalization for the city of Janesville.

The question of reassessment is a serious problem. Should it be ordered it would mean such a general revision that it would work serious harm to the city from an industrial point of view. It is an admitted fact that Janesville is paying more than its share of the county and state taxes, as compared with other cities in the county and to bring about an equalization of this condition would be advantageous to the city as a whole.

Mr. Maxfield stated this was one of the objects he had in view in his complaint to the state tax commission but he also admits that it could not be obtained by the present petition for adjustment in the city of Janesville alone. In order to bring about this county equalization it will be necessary to take the matter up before the county board at their next meeting. Meanwhile it is to be hoped that the present appeal for a reassessment will be dropped entirely.

Today is the last day that one can officially wear a straw hat. Of course, weather permitting, many a straw lid will be seen for weeks to come but officially the season is over.

Meanwhile Canada is holding its elections and it promises to be one of the most interesting that this section of North America has held in many seasons.

PRESS COMMENT.

Gratifying Reports. Evening Wisconsin: Reports from the potato region of Wisconsin are gratifying to the people who feared, on account of the generally discouraging reports concerning potatoes this year, that the high prices established during the interval between the consumption of the old and the free arrival of the new crop would be continued throughout the winter. It is stated that the yield in Waukesha county is estimated at 1,800,000 bushels, and in the state as a whole at 20,000,000. In the Wisconsin potato region proper, growing conditions have been good all summer and the crop has matured so early as to be beyond danger by September frosts.

Surely Need Squelching. Galesburg (Ill.) Mail: "In Wisconsin a man dived into the water and caught a twenty-one pound muskellunge. 'In Texas they are killing mountain lions with jackknives.' If this keeps up a long-suffering public will demand that a government censorship be placed over all mail coming from hunting and fishing camps.

Matter of Adoption. Oshkosh Northwestern: In several sections of northern France the women are pushing a movement against the high cost of living and to secure lower prices for living necessities. In this country the people have not so much to do with the high cost of living they have almost forgotten to kick or grumble.

Abundantly Remembered. Rockford Register-Gazette: Admiral Togo has been the recipient of so many American souvenirs as to embarrass his departure. He may have to relinquish some of his unsought honors.

Sic Tempora Fugit! Marinette Eagle-Star: How time does fly! It only seems a few years ago when those two young men, Bryan and Roosevelt, started the country by their political activity and candor. Now they are both grandpas.

A Rash Statement. Milwaukee News: That Kansas philosopher who says there is nothing worse than the possession of too much money should remember that no one ever had too much.

Taken For Granted? Fond du Lac Reporter: Although the agriculturalists have already harvested their crops, those presidential candidates are just watching their appearance above the surface. What will the harvest of 1912 be? Democratic, of course.

Ancient History Repeated. Sheboygan Journal: A crowd of 2,000 perfectly good American watched two auto racers die in a smash at Elgin Saturday, while 300 or 400 spectators also were injured more or less in the collapse of a flimsy grandstand. ### AN ACT OF SIMPLE JUSTICE.

A New Zealander was convicted of stealing sheep. After he had been in prison for five years it was discovered that he was innocent, and he was offered a pardon.

The convict refused the pardon. He had not committed the crime and therefore had done nothing which called for clemency.

Now— In this country and everywhere, except in New Zealand, when such a discovery of innocence is made the pardon is offered, and if the prisoner accepts well and good. If he does not accept the pardon he may stay in prison until he serves his time.

Such is the tender mercy of civilized states toward one whom it has wrongfully punished.

New Zealand believes that justice should be meted out to all equally. The payment directed the supreme court to reverse its decision—an act of justice never done by our courts—which cleared the man's name from every taint of legal guilt. And then—

It voted the unfortunate man $25,000 to compensate him for the injustice done him and for his time and labor.

You see, clemency is king in New Zealand. Frequently in our country men are pardoned on account of innocence of crime for which they have suffered years of punishment. Lately there have been several such cases.

Do our courts reverse their decisions? No. Do the victims receive pay? Not a cent.

What cruelty of treatment! Think of the indignity, the humiliation, the hard labor, the bitter sense of injustice, the suffering of relatives, the deprivation and disgrace of families! And the state thinks it does its duty when it sets the offender free!

One innocent convict when offered his freedom asked—like the prisoner of the French Bastille—to be allowed to stay in his cell until he died. The prison brand was on him. He had given on his best years to the state; his immediate family was dead; he could only go to the poorhouse.

Is it not monstrous that the state should repay a man for years of vicarious suffering by merely setting him free?

New Zealand has given an example to the whole world of an act of simple justice.

CURIOUS BITS OF HISTORY

THE FIRST POLITICAL DARK HORSE.

The first "dark horse" appeared in an American political convention in 1834. His name was James K. Polk. In the national Democratic convention of that year Van Buren, who had been president but was defeated by Harrison in 1840, was the leading candidate, with a majority of twenty-six in the convention. But the two-thirds rule held good, and that blasted Van Buren's chances. Seven ballots were taken with no result except an increase of bad feeling among the delegates. James K. Polk had been modestly mentioned for vice-president, but nobody had thought of him as a candidate for the chief place.

On the eighth ballot a delegate from Pennsylvania broke away from Buchanan and voted for Polk. The Maryland delegation joined him, and a flood of oratory broke loose. On that ballot Polk received forty-four votes. On the ninth the break became a stampede, and every vote was recorded for Polk.

He's writing books about the lives of all his plain and fancy wives. A few of them he may forget, but all the rest are in a row, for Nat, his heart devoid of ruth, heart devoid of ruth, heart devoid of ruth.

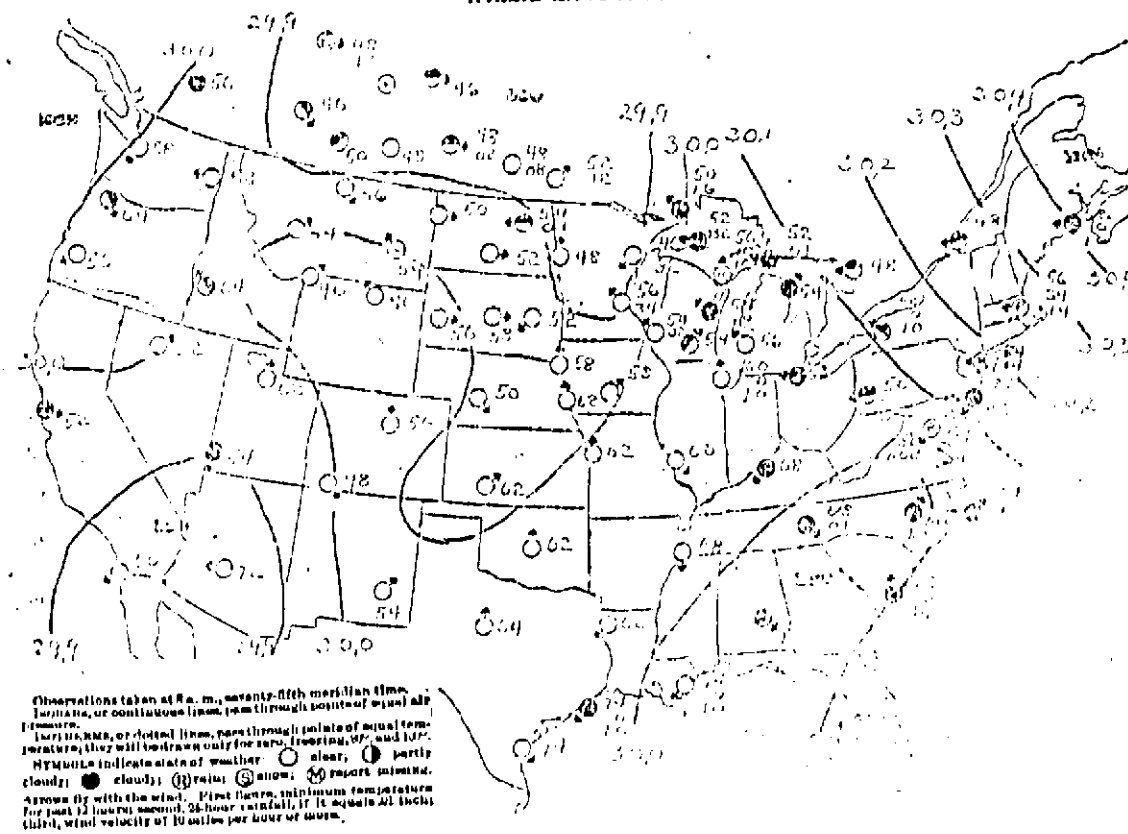

NAT GOODWIN declares he'll tell the shabby truth. Since girls are bound to marry Nat, they'll have to stand for things like that. To wit that sneaky Goodwin had his got to be a sort of find, which shows a low, degraded taste, for other games are far more chaste. The women of this modern day consider life a giddy play; to find amusement as they go is all the yearning that they know. When I was young the sober dames bent o'er their trusty quilting frames, and made straw bonnets, day by day, to send to heathen in Cathay; they brewed yarb tea and put up jam, and cured the large and luscious hum.

Alas, unlike the old time dames, to modern girls have trilling aims; to drink champagne at night, to ride around in motor cars, to spend their lives in a hot, to smoke cheroots and their lives such is the lightning brand of woe.

U. S. Department of Agriculture. WEATHER BUREAU

WILLIS L. MOORE, Chief.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

The area of high atmospheric pressure that was over eastern Ontario and the lower lake region yesterday has moved off over the Atlantic. There is no marked disturbance anywhere on the weather map today. The remnant of the Charleston hurricane, a slight barometric depression over the southwestern states is attended by light local rains in that region. Heavy rains have fallen on the north Atlantic coast under the influence of the northeasterly winds flowing landward from the north Atlantic high pressure area. New York reports 1.84 inches of rain during the past 24 hours. At Atlantic City 1.12, and Washington 1.08. There have been light sprinkles around the upper lakes and in the upper Mississippi valley, and in the Red and Saskatchewan valleys. Otherwise it is fair in the south and west. The prospects are good for continued fair weather in this vicinity, with slightly higher temperatures.

7 NATIONAL HIGHWAYS PROPOSED.

Sen. Cullom, who has introduced a bill into the Senate providing for a gigantic system of roads radiating from Washington. Map shows the general direction these roads will take.

Washington, D. C.—Sen. Cullom of Illinois has introduced a bill into the U. S. Senate, which is one of the most far reaching measures inaugurated during the extra session.

It provides for a gigantic system of seven great highways radiating from this city to all sections of the United States.

Former Representative J. Floyd King of Louisiana, has been actively back of the movement and is bending every effort to further the project. In "Motor Age" of August 17th, the details of the proposed highway are outlined, in part as follows:

"The seven great national roads provided for in the plan will all have one terminus in Washington. The other extremities proposed are Portland, Me., Buffalo, N. Y., Seattle, Wash., San Francisco, Cal., San Diego, Cal., Austin, Tex., and Miami, Fla. The seven national roads will be known as the Washington national highway, radiating from this city to Portland, Me.; Roosevelt highway, Washington to Niagara Falls, passing through Gettysburg; Lincoln highway, direct to Chicago and thence to Seattle;

Jefferson highway running almost due west traversing Virginia, West Virginia, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Nebraska, Colorado, Utah, Nevada and California; Grant highway, direct to Memphis and thence southwest, through all the southwestern states to San Diego; Monroe highway, passing through most of the southern states to New Orleans and thence to Austin, Tex.; and the Lee highway, running along the Atlantic coast to Miami, Fla. The only states through which none of the roads will run, if the plan is adopted, are Vermont, Michigan, Wyoming, Oregon, Missouri and Kansas. It is probable the routes will be so changed that all of these states, with the exception of Michigan, will be included in the plan. Michigan is so situated between the great lakes it is impossible to include it.

It is estimated the seven great highways proposed would not exceed a combined length of 12,000 miles, which at the estimate of $12,000 a mile, would bring the cost of the system up to the figure of $144,000,000.

HIGH JURIST OPPOSES THE RECALL OF JUDGES

Ex-Justice H. B. Brown Questions Judgment of People Also in Electing Senators.

Boston, Aug. 31.—Former Supreme Justice Henry P. Brown delivered the principal speech at the second day's session of the American Bar association in Huntington hall. The justice paid a tribute to the commission authorized by congress to revise and codify the laws and declared the performance of their task most admirable.

Mr. Brown bitterly opposed the recall of judges.

"The very idea that a judge could be compelled to descend from his bench and vindicate his right to retain his seat by an appeal to the public is the last recourse of political folly," he said.

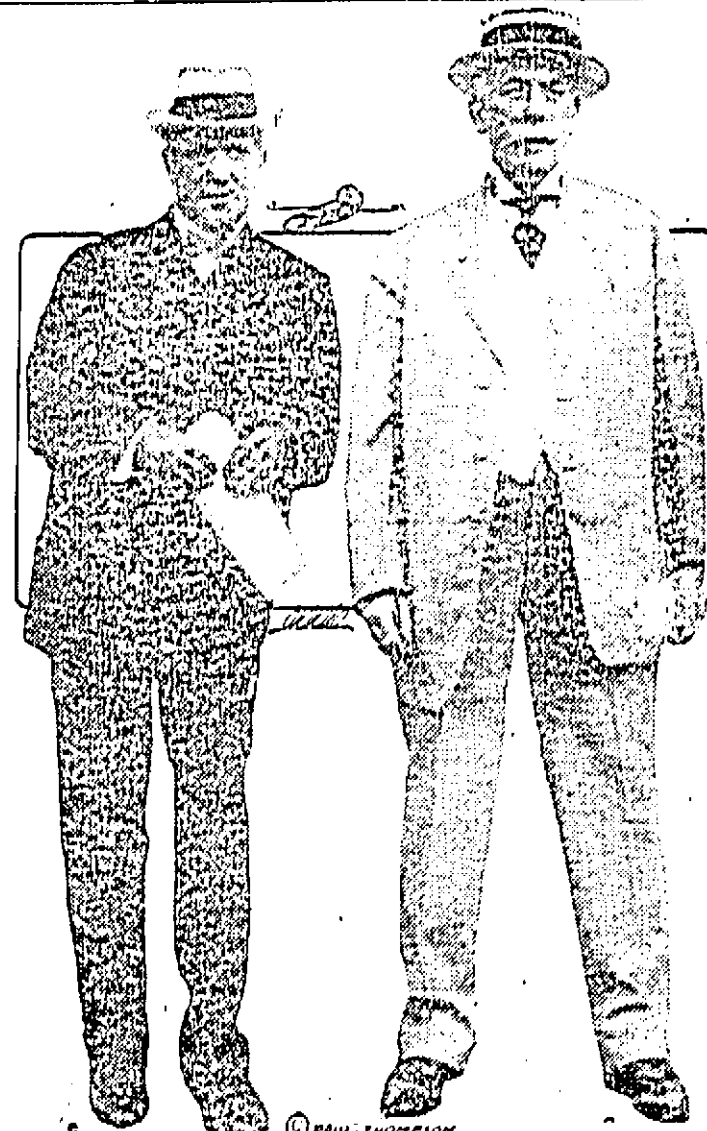

"The practice of allowing the people themselves to choose their own officers has been the origin of most of our woes."

In referring to the movement to give the people a more direct voice in the election of their legislative officers, Justice Brown called attention to popular election of senators, saying:

"It may well be doubted whether a senator chosen by a legislature may not more honestly represent his state and its people than one chosen by political caucus or a primary and endorsed by a popular vote."

Speaking of the tendency to a restriction of the popular vote in the election of legislative officers, Justice Brown took up the short ballot and approved of it as the "federal system" which has obtained since the adoption of the Constitution and has worked so satisfactorily that no serious effort has been made to change it."

to fix prices.
A committee was appointed to report on the formation of an international iron and steel association for the dissemination of information.

As the Chinese Make Matches.
The Japanese have developed the extensive manufacture of matches in China. There are factories at Tientsin, Peking, Hangchow, Shanghai and other places. The victorians do not allow the erection of several factories in the same town, so that each factory has a kind of local monopoly. The factory at Hangchow employs 3,000 hands and produces fifty or sixty tons daily.

COMMON SENSE CURE FOR RHEUMATISM.

Rheumatism has for ages been a puzzle to the doctors. Some claim it to be an infection, a germ disease. Others claim that the cause is uric acid, a kidney disease. It is said that uric acid is carried by the blood into the small arteries of the joints and skin where it crystallizes and it is the small, sharp crystals that cause intense pain with every motion of the body by cutting into the flesh and nerves. Whatever the cause, the best relief known is an Alkaline Elixer of the Salicylates. The chemical nature of the Salicylates is to form soluble compounds with the urates. In this way these crystals are dissolved, taken up by the blood and taken out of the body by the kidneys.

"This rheumatic elixer" taken in teaspoonful doses in hot water before meals. The cure is often in a day or two, yet the remedy should be taken for some time to thoroughly neutralize the blood and prevent a recurrence of the trouble. "The eliminations," as the doctors would say, that is the kidneys and the bowels, should be kept active. Rheumatic Elixer is compounded by Mr. McConk, our Graduate Pharmacist and Chemist, who would be pleased to give you any other information you wish. Sold at E. C. # WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON.

WE went on very prosperously, CONSIDERING, as people say of a young lady's drawing, or a Frenchman's English, or a woman's tragedy, or of the poor little dwarf who works without fingers, or the ingenious sailor who writes with his toes, or generally of any performance which is accomplished by means seemingly inadequate to its production.—Miss Mitford.

I wonder sometimes if that word "considering" doesn't do more harm than any word in the English language.

I have read somewhere that it takes a clever man to succeed, but twice as clever a man to explain why he didn't succeed.

I don't think so.

For there is always some explanatory circumstance which he can work up and hitting "considering" to it, persuade himself, at least, that he really has done wonders, "considering."

"Considering" is the excuse that half success always gives for not being complete success.

"Considering" is the screen of justification that the soul which knows that it is not receiving what it deserves of itself puts up between itself and the truth.

"Considering" is the coward's word and the philosopher's word. When you find yourself thinking that you have done anything pretty well "considering" look out. You are in a frame of mind that is fatal to progress. Ask yourself how well you have done, not "considering," not making allowances and you will have a far better, if bitterer tonic for effort.

If we could only drop the word considering and all its equivalents from our language, I think we would be better off.

But hold—what am I saying? I forget. On the contrary that would be a calamity indeed, for I remember now there are other uses for the word. Sweet and commendable uses.

For I think the really great man is he who is "as tolerant of other people's sins and weaknesses as he is intolerant of his own."

"Considering that she had no mother, I think she is a very good girl."

"Considering that he had no education I think he has succeeded wonderfully."

These are the proper uses of "considering." The more times we use it like that and the fewer times we use it with the first person the better for our soul's good.

TO HAVE what we want is useless; but to be able to do without, is power.

IDEAS ON SALAD MAKING.

The seasoning of a salad with the dressing with which it is served are very important. A potato salad is often tasteless and unpalatable because it is not properly seasoned. Potato needs a dressing to stand over it, to season well, much longer than any other vegetable. Taste the salad while preparing it, measurements are not always accurate tests for good seasoning. Much tasting means less wasting. A salad that may be prepared the day before is one most welcome as it saves the time for other things. The following is a good one:

Soak one-half a box of gelatine in one-half cup of cold water; add two cups and a half of boiling water, then three teaspoonsful of beef extract, a teaspoon of onion juice and a dash of salt. When cool, add a cupful of minced chicken, a dozen olives chopped fine, a half cup of pecan meats and half a cup of strained tomato. Pour into a mold and serve out in cubes on lettuce leaves with mayonnaise dressing.

Pear Salad.—For a simple salad this is delicious. Wipe pears and cut into eighths, lengthwise; remove seeds. Arrange on lettuce leaves, pour over French dressing and garnish with strips of red pepper. The canned red peppers are those used in the recipe, if the fresh ones are not in the market.

The addition of a little sour apple to a potato salad adds to its palatability.

Do not put French dressing on lettuce until ready to serve, as it soon loses its crispness, after the oil and vinegar are added.

If an ear of corn is left from dinner save it and add it to the vegetable salad for the next day. Corn is especially good in a potato salad.

Cottage cheese seasoned with chopped olives and served on lettuce leaves with a French or a boiled dressing, is a most wholesome salad. If a more elaborate one is desired, a teaspoonful of bar bit currants will make it quite elegant.

Dust on the Family Bible.

Rev. Patrick Bradley, preaching upon the prevalent neglect of the bible, said: "What I have walked through the different families of my congregation, I have found too little use made of the sacred volume which contains our right and title to a happy immortality. Many plead that they cannot have the bible always in their hands. True, but in many cases I find family bibles lying so unused that, with my finger, I could write damnation upon the covers of them! These things ought not to be."

COMPOSITION OF MILK.

FUEL VALUE 310 CALORIES PER POUND

The percentage of water is larger in milk than in any other food except watermelon. The largest proportion of solid is the carbohydrate, which is sugar, a heat and energy producer, superior to any other form of sugar and the only form suited for the infant. The fat, which may be less than four per cent, has two and a quarter times more heat and energy capacity than sugar. Milk fat is the most easily digested of all fats, and the only one adapted to the infant. Cow's milk contains an excess for the human infant. The ash element, less than one per cent; always, contains all the mineral elements for the formation of bone and for the nutrition of the nervous system and cell activity. The protein is the tissue forming element, found in larger proportion in cow's milk than in human, because the calf matures in much shorter time. The character of the protein in cow's milk also differs, being much tougher and therefore more difficult of digestion, and hence cow's milk requires modification for the infant. The price of a quart of milk will buy more than ten times as much nutrition in wheat or corn.

For Little Misses

LACY braids, embroidered batiste and mill, nets, lace, hair braids and silk go to make up the majority of hats for young girls and smaller misses. The shapes are more soft and bonnet like than ever and narrow side platings of sheer fabrics and lace are more favored than over. Cascades of plaited ruffles fall about and over considerable of the face. Soft puffed crowns look like quaint old-time ideas revived for youthful wearers.

When the baby girl graduates from the regulation baby bonnet, she will don a bonnet-like hat, or a bonnet made on a light wire frame, quite elaborately trimmed with ribbons and lace and small flowers. Ribbons have always been the favorite trimming for children's millinery. This spring season it is to be used in greater abundance than ever. Small roses, tiny rose foliage and other little flowers like the forget-me-not and valley-illy, the cowslip and tiny daisy, continue to reign as favorites for children. There is a little round hat made by shirring a large circle of silk or embroidered batiste or other sheer fabrics, on a feather-bone. Four rows of shirring form the up-turned brim, and the crown is just a puff of the material. This little cap is finished with a big rosette made of wide ribbon shirred. A variation of this model has a silk crown and brim of point do-coprit. It is a highly successful novelty.

The regular plain bonnet is in high favor, and numbers of little hats are simply diminutives of the simple shapes worn by grown-ups. They are simply trimmed with ribbon.

Fig. 1 shows a pretty model of thin silk and lace Tuscan braid. The light wire shape is faced with silk and bound with braid. A soft tan crown of silk makes a foundation for the has the right side of front cut in a point where a button is sewn; figured nylon is used for the yoke and under-sleeves. It is drawn up to collar band, and tucked for the sleeve. A leather band finishes the waist.

Material required: 4 yards serge 48 inches wide, 1½ yards striped material for trimming, 1 yard nylon.

The cloth is used for a becoming little dress, which has an overskirt cut with a point in front, and simply hemmed; the underskirt is quite plain, and turned up with a deep hem. The bodice is prettily trimmed with two tucks on the shoulder, also at the lower part of front, a collar of lace edged with satin turns back from a yoke of soft silk, the cuffs to finish. Satin ribbon should be used to finish the waist.

Materials required: 4½ yards cloth 48 inches wide, ¾ yard silk, ¼ yard satin, 1 yard lace.

after collapse. It seems that also has been jealous of Miss Dreier for some years but understood from her husband that he was attempting to sell some pictures to a Philadelphia woman and that he would soon have plenty of funds through this deal to furnish her with the necessities and luxuries of life.

BUDDHA CARVED FROM CLIFF.

The giant Buddha at Kiating, in China, of which the photograph shows the head, is about 160 feet high. It is full length, and the feet are washed by a foaming mountain torrent. It was indeed to guard against the dangers of the rapids here that the figure was cut in the cliff-side by the life-long labor of a single priest. The rock is somewhat soft, and there is much earth in the crevices. This has been ingeniously utilized for a monstrous growth of hair, eyebrows, and mustache.

A MOST REMARKABLE TREE

A remarkable tree has been discovered about the region of Lake Chad. Its power of increase in every way is remarkable. In a few months an extensive tract of land, we read, became an impenetrable forest. In one season it is said to grow to the height of from four to five meters; in other words, from 12 to over 16 feet.

Its foliage is said to resemble the mimosa and its branches are thorny. The wood can be cut into planks and the natives work it up into canoes. The Tiliho Mission has utilized the wood for making tables and doors.

A Profit From Bubbles.

In the Cobalt mining district of Canada, eight miles south of the new mining town called Cobalt, is an extraordinary power plant, from which more than five thousand horsepower in compressed air is gained by making, capturing and confining air bubbles. It is the largest natural air compressor plant in the world, the compression being effected by the direct action of falling water trapping particles of air in its descent, and afterwards liberating them in a confined chamber under pressure. The compressed air is sold to the mining companies and other concerns at Cobalt in the same manner that gas or electricity is sold in other communities.

PRETTY BLOUSE.

Any one who likes to feel their throats free will be pleased with this blouse, which is cut in rather a low square. The material is arranged in tucks across front that are attached to the bust; at the back there are three tucks each side.

The square is outlined with embroidery that is continued down the wrap over right front. The sleeves are trimmed with a point of embroidery, and are gathered into wristbands covered with the same.

Materials required: 2½ yards 28 inches wide, 2½ yards embroidery.

Cavalryman's Feat.

Capt. Joan Pann of the Rumanian cavalry, recently achieved the feat of riding the same horse from Bucharest to Paris, a distance of about 2,200 miles, in 58 days. He was followed throughout by a little filly which carried his baggage. "I am a keen horseman," Captain Pann said on reaching Paris, "and horsemanship is held in great honor in the Rumanian army and long rides are no rarity with us. Being entrusted by our war minister with a special mission in France, I decided that the most suitable means of reaching Paris for a Rumanian cavalryman was on horseback. I traveled by day or by night, according to the temperature and the attractions of the route. I had no reason to hurry and traveled five or six hours a day. My longest stage was from Bernes to Lausanne, when I covered 75 miles, in a night."—Army and Navy Journal.

Power of England's Primrose.

The archbishop of Canterbury "is prime of all England." He is endowed with the right to grant special licenses to marry and also appoints notaries public. It is he who grants dispensations to clerics of the church to hold more than one benefice, subject to certain restrictions imposed by statute in recent years. The archbishop ranks as the first peer of the realm after the prince of the royal blood, and has the right to crown the sovereign, and to other secular prerogatives.

Thought for Today

MRS. ROBERT N. LAVOLLETTE.

EASY GYMNASTICS

DO you ever watch a horse put to pasture? It rolls and stretches before it eats. Stretching and rolling are two of the easiest and best gymnastics one can find for restoring the normal balance and keeping the body young and elastic. On awaking in the morning lying flat on the back, stretch up with the arms and hands and down with the legs and feet; stretch and relax alternately a number of times, as a cat does. This exercise is beautifying and the best possible preparation for the day's work.

Stretching is an excellent corrective exercise for those who are chilled to all a great deal and also a good antidote for nervousness. Sitting easily in a chair, gradually energize the whole body, stretching to the tips of the toes, and the tips of the fingers, at the same time open the mouth wide, draw in long deep breaths and fill the lungs to it, then feel the rest of letting go. This is likely to bring on a natural yawn, one of nature's best gymnastics. We can stretch and yawn away more small troubles in a minute than we could argue out of mind in a week.

There is little opportunity for us grown-ups to roll on the grass, but we can encourage the children to make the most of this happy pastime. Before going to bed at night, place a sheet on the floor and roll over and over and back again a number of times. It is a strangely soothing and sleep-conducting gymnastic.

When one has been hard at work physically or under nervous strain of any kind, there is nothing like stretching and yawning or rolling over and over to overcome the sense of fatigue. These easy exercises are better for their purpose than a doctor's prescription.

The Candid Girl

by Barbara Boyd

Tells Some of the Things an Invalid Doesn't Like.

IF I were a sick person," said the Candid Girl, "that is, an all the year round sick person, seems to me I would get some of my friends if I had any, to give me a little printing press, or a handy typewriter, or something of the kind, and amuse myself by setting up some tracts for gratuitous distribution."

"What like?" said the woman who was feeling poorly.

"I think I would have various subjects, such as 'Voice,' 'Walk,' 'Conversation,' 'Literature,' and things like that, and print a little treatise on each."

"For instance," went on the Candid Girl, "under 'Voice' I would inscribe:

"Those with high-pitched, excitable voices, please keep away."

"Those who talk in a hoarse whisper, please betake themselves elsewhere."

"Those whose voices have the melancholy wail of the autumn wind, please fade."

"Those whose voices sound like a rusty file, please hike to a voice-culture establishment."

"Those who have a cold and are hoarse and cough and sneeze every few minutes and then apologize for it, please seek a comfortable chair in a doctor's office."

"I think I could write quite a lot about the voice for the sick-room. Of course, people go to see the sick with the best of intentions. But they need something beside intentions to make their visit enjoyable."

"A sick person is cranky," said the woman who felt poorly.

"Everything is at a low ebb with him," said the Candid Girl gently.

"And it takes a robust vitality to stand some things."

"As for 'The Walk,' I should ask please not to have a tread like an elephant that made my teeth rattle every time they took a step. Nor to go about on tiptoes, as if they were making an awful effort to keep quiet. The strain they seem to be on kays the sick person up. Then I should suggest to avoid creaky shoes, and clicking the heels down with every step. A walk in a sick-room has a lot of effect upon an invalid."

"As for conversation, one could write a book on what not to talk about in a sick-room. If you were young, I don't think you would want to be told about all the dances and picnics and motor trips that the other girls were having and you were cut out of. And if you were old, I don't think you'd like it intimated that you were on the fast express for heaven or some other place. Nor do I think you like to be told of all the railroad wrecks and murders and fires and robberies that are going on in the world, so that when your visitor is gone, your mind is filled with forebodings as to whether or not every member of your family will be killed before they get home that night, or the house got on fire and you'd be burned to death before you can be carried out."

"I think the very best person to tell us what to do in a sick-room is the sick. A well person can't imagine the effect of lying and looking at a picture that grows uglier and uglier the longer you look at it, nor what your feelings are when you see the fifty-seventh variety of jelly appearing at the door in the hands of a beaming visitor, nor how hard it is to look pleased when some one brings you a great bunch of asters, though you loathe the sight of an aster."

"It does seem as if you are all nerves and crankiness when you are sick," said the woman who was feeling poorly.

"And each invalid has his own brand of crankiness," concluded the Candid Girl. "So that it would be extremely helpful to the family and friends, and of benefit to himself, if each would get out a little treatise, telling in detail his own peculiarities."

FROST WAVE COMING DURING FIRST WEEK

Foster Weather Bureau Predicts Damaging Cold Wave September 5 To 9.—Followed by Warmer.

(Copyrighted by W. T. Foster.)

Last bulletin gave forecasts to cross continent Sept. 3 to 7. Northern frosts will be the main feature of this disturbance. These frosts are expected to come with the cold wave that will cross the continent Sept. 5 to 9. A frost wave will also be crossing northern great central valleys Sept. 2 and eastern sections Sept. 4. These frosts may not do much damage, but tender plants should be protected.

Next disturbance will reach Pacific coast about Sept. 8, cross Pacific slope by close of 9, great central valleys in 12, eastern sections 13. Warm wave will cross Pacific slope about Sept. 8, great central valleys 10, eastern sections 12. Cold wave will cross Pacific slope about Sept. 11, great central valleys 13, eastern sections 14.

Warmer Weather.

This disturbance will average much warmer than that for the five days centering on the warm wave. It will increase in power Missouri and in north of the Ohio valleys. Not much rain in the Atlantic and Gulf coast states and the central north-west. This will be good for cotton where it has heretofore been too dry, but it will be generally favorable for the spring wheat sections both for threshing and for maturing late crops. Much attention is now due to wheat sowing. October will be unusually warm and, where moisture is sufficient, early sowing will make a large growth. Good rains may be expected during October west of mountain 85, but that month will be very dry east of mountain 85. Of course there will be some local exceptions.

Warm November.

November will average warmer than usual and moisture will be fairly well distributed. These conditions suggest that best results will come from late sowing, on account of insufficient rain in large sections while a warm Oct. suggests the fly in early winter wheat. It sown in good time winter wheat will succeed up to the 1st of January, but in large sections the crop will not be good next year. The annual precipitation is always sufficient to make good wheat, but a drought at a critical time is ruinous. Midwinter thaws are also ruinous. I have completed my calculations for 1912 and am studying the prospects carefully. What I have said about wheat will largely apply to all winter grains.

In a general way my seasonal forecasts for 1911 have proven wonderfully correct. Of course there are small exceptions. Had my forecasts been followed by all the average result would have been a saving of many millions. In 30 per cent of all cases it pays to follow these forecasts for agricultural purposes and during the crop growing season it will pay largely for those interested in agricultural markets.

Particularly the Ladies.

Not only pleasant and refreshing to the taste, but gently cleansing and sweetening to the system, Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna is particularly adapted to ladies and children, and beneficial in all cases in which a wholesome, strengthening and effective laxative should be used. It is perfectly safe at all times and dispels colds, headaches and the pains caused by indigestion and constipation so promptly and effectively that it is the one perfect family laxative which gives satisfaction to all and is recommended by millions of families who have used it and who have personal knowledge of its excellence.

Its wonderful popularity, however, has led unscrupulous dealers to offer imitations which act unsatisfactorily. Therefore, when buying, to get its beneficial effects, always note the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—plainly printed on the front of every package of the genuine Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna.

NOTES FOR CITY FARMERS ONLY.

(By H. L. RANN.)

A reader who has a fine herd of male and female bees asks us: "How do you catch the queen bee so as to clip her wings?" We generally use a scoop shovel with a pucker string, which should be slipped over the shoulders of the bee and tied in a bowknot, after which the wings can be clipped with a pair of thinners' shears. The queen bee carries a nifty and penetrating sting in her hip pocket, so considerable care must be exercised in clipping her. The best farm dog ever put out in the collar pup, a good Scotch or Canadian Irish collie with a loud voice and firm teeth will inspire more respect in a herd of milch cows than a bunch of milk stools. In picking out a shepherd dog always select one whose mother was crossed with a hyena and which can point with his nose and set with his tail. He may not take any heavy prizes, but when he shakes his front teeth in the back porch of a stubborn steer you will have to pry him loose with a stick of dynamite. This breed of pup has better staying qualities than a straight-front corset.

DOINGS OF THE VAN LOONS—Father finds that his hunt for quiet and rest is no cinch.

A FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY WAR STORY
BY F. A. MITCHELL.

Copyright, 1892, by American Press Association.

An apology for "The War" was carried in to Mrs. Fahn and Laura, which they left untasted, preferring a lunch which they had brought with them in a basket. After supper Laura came out and begged Mark to bring Souri and Jakey to speak to her. She smoothed Jakey's tumbled hair out of his eyes and asked him if he remembered her. Jakey was about to reply in his usual fashion when he checked himself, and for the first time since Mark had known him answered directly. Souri stood cowering from the corners of her black eyes with a mingled expression of admiration and antagonism. Laura spoke to her kindly, but got only monosyllables in reply.

"I FEAR THAT WE SHALL BE MURDERED BEFORE MORNING."

After all were asleep that night Mark took Farmer Slack out into the yard, where they could converse unobserved, and developed a plan he had conceived for Souri and Jakey.

"It is due to your son and daughter," he said, "that I am here at this moment, indeed that I am alive. I belong to a wealthy family and am wealthy myself. It only requires means to make a splendid woman of the girl and a fine man of the boy, for means will produce education, and education is the open door to a desirable career. I am going to leave with you a letter to my father in Ohio, which will contain an order for a sufficient amount of money to insure both Jakey and Souri an education. Take or send them north, present the letter, and you will find everything provided for you. Souri may not consent at once, but doubtless she will in time. Now I must have pen and paper."

"You are a good son, stranger. I treat you far. Hadn't you better send the letter when you get it?"

"No, I must write it tonight. I am by no means safe; my neck is still in a halter."

The man led the way to his bedroom, where the old woman was sleeping. There he produced writing materials, and Mark wrote an order which, whether he lived or not, insured the future of his two friends, his preservers among the "poor white trash" of Tennessee.

me is too differ. You are a gentle man, and I am poor white trash." There was an inexpressible melancholy in her tone.

"Souri," Mark went on, "I have made an arrangement with your father to make a lady of you. I can't make such a sacrifice for you as you have made for me; that is impossible; but I can do this if you will act with me and consent to the plan. I shall be off in a moment, and before I go I want you to promise me that you will consent. I am still in danger, and you must grant me this as perhaps a last favor."

The girl burst into tears. "Promise," she said.

"I don't keep what I do."

"Do you promise?"

"Yes, I promise."

With a pressure of the hand he turned away, and stalking to the gate got into the carriage beside Laura. Daniel and Mrs. Fahn had started. Mark followed, and had gone but a short distance when he heard Jakey calling to him. He pulled in the pony and waited for the boy to come up. Jakey was holding something out to him, which, as he drew nearer, Mark recognized as the red silk handkerchief.

"Souri sent it to you?"

"Tell her that I'll never part with it."

"N I got the squirrel gun," said the boy.

"All right, Jakey. Keep it to remember me by."

Mark grasped the boy's hand and then drove on. Laura Fahn leaned back on the cushions in silence.

CHAPTER XIV.

THOMAS GREEN AND WIFE.

MARK designed driving to Anderson, some twelve miles from the Shells' house, whence he knew there was a road leading up in the mountains through a place called Altamont, some twenty miles further, to McMinnville. He was informed by people he met on the road that Altamont had been recently occupied in force by the Union troops. With luck they might reach the Union lines, which would doubtless extend several miles from Altamont, that afternoon.

"Within six hours," said Mark, "I shall either be safe among Union soldiers or on my way back to Chattanooga."

Laura shuddered, but said nothing. Mark found a very different condition of affairs at Anderson from what he had found along the road. The Confederates had some cavalry force there and more at Dunlap, five miles north. On the road he heard that General Bragg was at Dunlap, but with no troops save cavalry.

"I see it all," said the spy to himself. "The wily fox is confronting our forces with a handful of cavalry, while the two divisions of Chattanooga and Wither's are marching north behind him, and the main force has gone to Knoxville by rail on a line still farther east. No wonder our generals are puzzled and watching a line from Battle Creek to Cumberland gap. If the Lord will only let me get through to carry this information, I'll never ask to live to go on another such expedition."

The party were stopped near Anderson by a picket. Mrs. Fahn produced her pass and stated that the two behind were in her company. The officer took no special care in reading it, and when Mark and Laura came up they got safely through without question.

Mark was now anxious about the picket which must be passed in a few minutes on the road leading west from Anderson. Mrs. Fahn was still ahead, and he hoped that all would go as well as at the picket just passed. Not a word was spoken between him and Laura; both dreaded getting out of Anderson, but once past the next picket they would breathe easier.

When they reached it Mrs. Fahn had been passed through and gone on. The officer in command, however, had read the pass carefully. He had not noticed any mention of Mark in it.

"Where's your pass?" he asked. "Didn't the body ahead show it to you?" asked Mark. "Her pass didn't include you." "Didn't it?" Mrs. Fahn surprised. "No." "Oh, I forgot; mine and my wife's is separate," and he drew out the pass of "Thomas Green and wife."

Meanwhile Laura had turned white as a cloth. The officer read the pass, and would doubtless have let them go had he not noticed Laura's agitation.

"You'll have to go back to headquarters and get Major Tallafiero's order on that. He commands at Anderson," Mark remonstrated. He argued that he would become separated from Mrs. Fahn; he urged his wife's desire to reach her sick father. All in vain. He was told that the headquarters were only half a mile down the road and he would lose but little time. He made a virtue of necessity and drove back with apparent good nature.

The commanding officer had gone to Dunlap, five miles away, to pay his respects to General Bragg, and would not be back for an hour or two.

Mark resolved to report his absence to the officer of the picket post, in the hope that he would not be compelled to wait. He drove to the picket and used his tongue persuasively, but to no purpose. The more anxious he seemed the more resolved grew the captain.

There seemed to be nothing to do but return and await the arrival of the commanding officer. Mark reluctantly turned the horse's head and drove back to headquarters. Laura's heart sank within her.

It was sunset when Major Tallafiero, a pleasant looking man of twenty-seven or twenty-eight, rode up to the door and entered the office.

"Major Tallafiero?" asked Mark.

"At your service, sir."

"Major, I have been detained by the officer at the picket, who wants your name on my pass. My wife's mother has gone on, and her daughter is very anxious to join her. It is extremely unfortunate for us to get so far separated from Mrs. Fahn."

"Fahn, of the Fains of Chattanooga?"

"The same."

"I have heard of the family, but have never had the pleasure of meeting any member of it. One of my friends is engaged to Miss Fahn. I have just joined from him at Dunlap."

Mark and Laura cast a quick glance at each other—a glance of terror on the part of Laura.

"We are fortunate in falling into your hands," said Mark, "and I beg you will not delay us a moment." And Mark handed him the pass.

"Certainly not." And the major took up a pen to write his endorsement. First he read the pass carefully. He was thinking of what his friend Fitz Hugh had told him of the Fains. He was under the impression that there was but one daughter.

"Mr. Green," he said, looking up from the pass, "hadn't you better stay here over night? The road is mountainous and infested by guerrillas. It is positively dangerous to travel."

"By no means. What would Mrs. Fahn think of our not joining her on the road?"

"It is dangerous for her as well as you. I'll send a messenger after her and advise her stopping at some farmhouse. I'll do better than that. I'll send a corporal and half a dozen men to insure her safety till morning."

There was something in the man's tone, polite as it was, that indicated to Mark that he was held for further information.

"As you please, major."

"And I shall insist upon your accepting my hospitality. One connected in any way with my friend Fitz Hugh must not want for any comfort I can supply."

The house occupied by Major Tallafiero belonged to a family who had gladly given up a portion of it for the safety insured by the presence of a commanding officer. The major was given a room down stairs for an office, and a bedroom up stairs. When it was decided that Mark and Laura should remain he gave Mrs. Green, as he called her, the use of the latter for the purpose of arranging her toilet before supper.

When Laura was up stairs Mark was looking out of the window of the major's office. He saw the men ride off to overtake Mrs. Fahn. To his consternation another cavalryman, with a letter in his belt, mounted his horse and dashed down the road.

Laura came down at that moment, and Mark said to her anxiously: "I am detained on suspicion. I shall be taken back to Chattanooga," and he pointed to the courier.

The color left Laura's cheeks. They had got so near to safety, and now, after so many dangers, the end was at hand. She could scarcely sustain herself as she tottered into the room occupied as the office.

This is the letter the courier bore northward. It was addressed on the envelope to Captain Cameron Fitz Hugh, near Dunlap:

Anderson, Aug. 25, 1862.

My Dear Cameron—A man purporting to be Thomas Green, with his wife, formerly a Miss Fahn of Chattanooga, is here, desiring a pass to the Union lines. There is something suspicious about the man. The couple are separated from the wife's mother, and the father has very ill at Nashville. I desire to detain them, and I do not regard it safe to pass them. Can you help me out of the difficulty? Yours very truly,

WALLACE TALLAFIERO.

Major Tallafiero soon joined Mark and Laura in his office, and offering his arm to Laura led the way to the supper room. His treatment of both was most deferential, but it failed to deceive either that they were prisoners.

There was a strength of nerve in Mark that would not break while there was hope. He chatted with the host or jester, whichever he might be called, with ease, and at times with gaiety. Not so Laura. The situation was too frightful for her to endure without some manifestation of anxiety. She ate nothing. She did not hear what was said to her, and her eyes phially showed the troubled spirit within.

Mark made no reference to her condition till after supper. Then, when all three went out on to the veranda, he said to her:

"Come, let us take a stroll. You have been traveling all day, and this delay troubles you. A walk in the air will revive you."

Mark assumed with such apparent carelessness that he was free to walk about where he liked that Tallafiero had not the will to stop him.

The road led straight from the house a short distance and then entered a wood. As soon as they were concealed behind the trees Mark stopped suddenly and turned to Laura:

"My God, this is terrible!"

"You are lost!" said Laura faintly. She could scarcely speak the words.

"I? Yes, I. But you—what have I led you into? Why was it not over on that morning when it was intended? Then you would not be implicated; now your good name is—"

"No one will trouble me," she gasped. "But you—they will drag you—"

"You have protected me—a spy. Not only that—that is nothing in comparison with having passed as my wife. There is a blight."

"I can bear it."

"There is but one way out of this disgrace. You must be married before we return to that house. And to whom?—his voice changed from a rapid, excited tone to deepest gloom—"to one who must die—die on the scaffold. At any rate you will be free. You will be a widow."

Laura stood, the very impersonation of despair.

"All I can do to atone for this," Mark went on rapidly, "and it is nothing—is to make you my wife; since I have passed you as such. Laura, will you marry me?"

She looked at him earnestly. Her eyes were big with deep emotion. There was a look in them that he could not understand.

"No!"

"Then I can do nothing for you." "I will marry only the man who loves me, and whom I love."

"Oh, Laura," he said, "if your heart were only mine, then it would be different. I love you so well, I worship you with such fervor that I would go back to that dreadful jail without a word could I place you where you were before you met me. That you—"

ONE LEG OFF AND ONE ON

A suit for $2,000 damages brought by Margaret Smith against Mrs. Emma Stagg, partner with her husband in an artificial limb business, was filed in New York the other day. The plaintiff says that she bought an artificial leg for $75, which she was to pay for in installments. She took the leg to the defendant to be repaired. The defendant got into a quarrel with her because one installment was due, and she claims while she was sitting with one leg off and one leg on the defendant assaulted her and finally drove her out of the place. Her sister helped her to get home, but she has been out of work since the defendant retained her leg, because no one will employ a woman with only one leg.

HAS TWO "DRY" BATTLESHIPS

The British navy has just taken a step unprecedented in its history. The two cruisers Rainbow and Niobe are to be totalton men of war, contrary to all marine traditions.

Grog has always been a part of the standard ration, being a concoction of one part rum to three parts water, but no such luxury is to be permitted on the two ships above mentioned. In the old days, in fact down to 1830, the daily allowance to each man was a gallon of ale and half a pint of rum. The quantity has been greatly modified, but it certainly never entered any tar's head that the time was coming for total abstinence.

WOLVES TRAP A TRAPPER

H. L. Mantell, a Mouse River (N. D.) trapper, had a narrow escape from a band of wolves. There were about 20 in the pack and when he began shooting at them his team ran away, leaving him with only a few cartridges in his rifle. With these he killed seven of the wolves, but was compelled to climb to the top of a hay loading machine which fortunately happened to be near at hand.

He was kept there three hours before the howls of the wolves and the cries of the trapped trapper brought assistance.

Just His Luck. "That's just my luck! Here is an atrialp overhead, and I've got a stiff neck!"—Allende Blatter.

Loss of Time means Loss of Pay. Kidney trouble and the ill it breeds means lost time and lost pay to many a working man. M. Balent, 1214-Liberty Penna. St., Streator, Ill., was so bad from kidney and bladder trouble that he could not work, but he says: "I took Foley Kidney Pills for only a short time and I got entirely well, and was soon able to go back to work, and am feeling well and healthier than before." Foley Kidney Pills are tonic in action, quick in results—a good friend to the working man or woman who suffers from kidney ill. Foley Kidney Pills will clear the progress of your kidney and bladder trouble and heal by removing the cause. Try them. Badger Drug Co.

The Cowling Fever Thermometer

will enable you to ascertain your Normal temperature. This will help you in time of sickness and thereby detect the symptom of the disease, in its incipience.

To own a Fever thermometer is a sign of intelligence. In taking the temperature of the human body, an accurate instrument should be used such as the Cowling Fever thermometer.

The Cowling Fever thermometer is a Twenty-fourth Century instrument, and has all improvements, since the first one used by Sanctorius at Padua in 1620.

For sale by the following Druggists: McCre & Russ, W. T. Shorur, J. P. Baker, Smith's Pharmacy. See that the name James Cowling, Galena, Ill., is on the thermometer.

WHY THE TURKEY IS BALD.

Also Why the Indian Uses Its Wings to Fan a Fire Into Flame. The Indians of our country have many legends connected with certain peculiar habits or customs prevalent among them. If one should chance to visit the home of an old Indian he would perhaps notice a turkey wing hanging near the fire.

This the Indian uses to fan his fire into a flame and make it burn brightly or perhaps in the sultry days of summer to fan himself. If asked why he uses the turkey wing instead of the wing of any other bird he would no doubt relate the following story:

Many years ago the fire of the world was nearly extinguished. This happened just at the beginning of the winter season. The birds of the air were filled with anxiety, for their intuition told them they would need heat to keep them warm through the winter.

A bird council was held, and it was decided that birds which could fly the highest should soar into the air and see if they could find a spark of fire anywhere. The efforts of the eagle, lark and raven were in vain. The honor was left to the little brown sparrow, who spied a spark of fire in the hollow of an old stump in the heart of a deep forest.

The birds flocked around the stump and tried to decide who should pick the spark out. But all their efforts were in vain. To their dismay they saw the spark growing smaller and fainter. The turkey then volunteered to try to keep the spark alive by fanning it with his wings. Day after day the turkey kept fanning. The heat became greater each day until the feathers were singed off the turkey's head. If one notices carefully he will see lumps on the head of a turkey that appear as blisters.

It is believed that the turkey was so badly burned that all turkeys since have had bald heads and wear the blisters as a memento of the bravery of the turkey. The faithful turkey lost his beautiful feathers, but he gave back fire to the world, so in his honor and as a memorial of his faithfulness the Indian uses the turkey wing to make his fire burn.—Red Man.

Polk County, Minnesota, in the Celebrated Red River Valley, is the Place

If you are looking for a farm home, where you can enjoy all the comforts of modern farm life and, by practical attention to farm duties win success, there is no section of the country offering greater opportunities than Polk County, Minnesota.

A Polk County farm has the soil, the conveniences, the comforts and the attractions that will satisfy you, and at the same time the present value of the land, measured by what you will have to pay for it, is out of all proportion to what its possibilities are, and careful investigation and consideration will convince you that no other section holds out as promising opportunities.

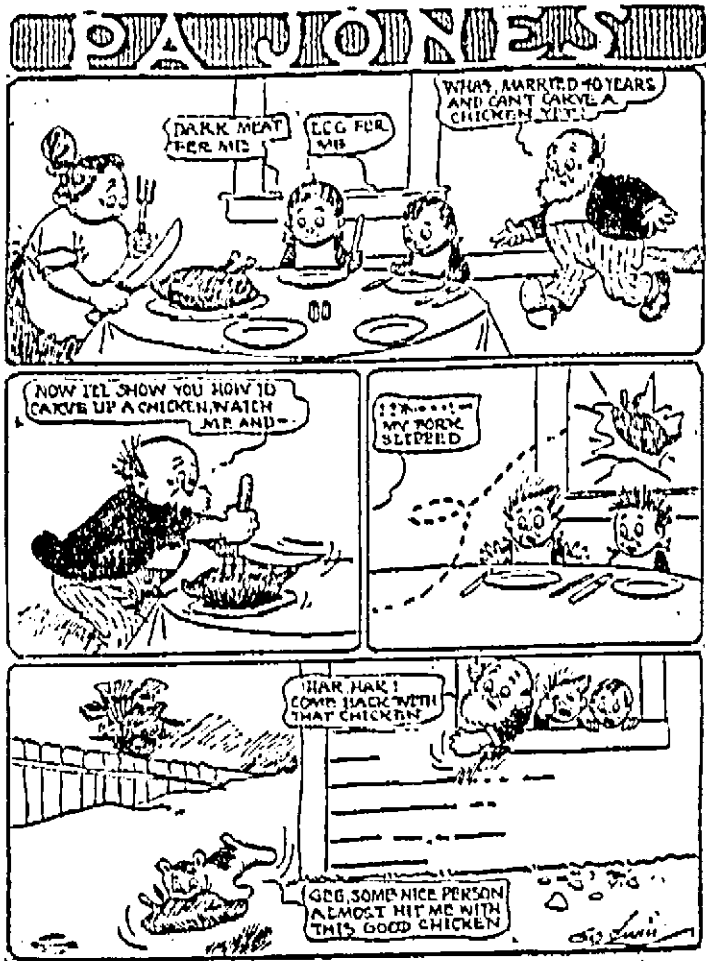

The idea has grown in some people's minds that the Red River Valley is low and wet. This is an erroneous impression as such is not the case. The State of Minnesota has put in several large ditches, and the Counties in the Valley, have put in smaller ditches, all to take care of this surface water, which they have in the Spring, owing to the fact that this particular valley is drained by the Red River of the North, which of course, flowing north, does not thaw at the mouth as early as it does at the source, thus causing the water to back up, and in the past, overflow the land.

By having these ditches the water backs up into them, instead of overflowing the land, and thus relieves this country of what was at one time, a very serious drawback to early cropping of the land.

Come in and see me, and if after investigating my proposition you find that everything is not just as I represent it to you, I will refund your railroad fare both ways. Is this not a fair offer?

FORTY YEARS AGO

The Janesville Daily Gazette, Thursday, August 31, 1871.
Cotton Mill Prospects.
Members of the firm of Randall & Co., Rockford, were in the city last evening for the purpose of conferring with the board of trade in regard to the location of a cotton mill here. A meeting of the board was called, which was largely attended, and the matter was thoroughly discussed. Nothing definite was reached, but the majority of those present were in favor of the project, and it is probable that arrangements may be made to secure the location of the mill in Janesville. Messrs. Randall & Co. have the necessary machinery and desire to organize a stock company here, asking for a bonus of only a sufficient amount to pay for the removal of the machinery.

Badly Injured.
This section of the country narrowly escaped a frost last night, much to the relief of tobacco growers.

High Position Not for Him.
Before W. P. Waggoner was elected president of the Alumni association of St. Benedict's college of Atchison, Kan., a priest who positively declined, had been nominated for the position. The speaker who placed the priest's name before the association said it was fitting that a man be selected who is eligible to become a bishop. This remark made Mr. Waggoner reluctant to accept the election tendered him later, even though it was unanimous. "I would be pleased, I am sure," said Mr. Waggoner, "if I could occupy the dignified and exalted position of a bishop, but as it is I am handicapped by a wife and three children."

Sorrows of the Rich.
Almost any millionaire would be willing to give up a large percentage of his fortune if he could tell the difference between a masterpiece and a dandy.

Golden Silence.
One of the children in the Lyander John Appleton family is named Vassar for the college from which their mother was graduated. Mrs. Appleton says: "He has went," and uses many other strange expressions for a Vassar graduate, but she is a Woman, and none dare say a word of doubt.—Atchison (Kan.) Globe.

Business Opportunity

WANTED—One of the largest and most well-known shoe manufacturers in the United States, giving employment to between four and five thousand people, and who have spent several million dollars giving publicity to their products, which are today known in every city and town in the United States, want a man or woman with average business ability to operate a store in towns of ten thousand and up, including Janesville.

The line of goods is a commercial staple and a necessity. A store of this kind backed by our advertising campaign, which is conceded by experts to be the greatest in the world, is bound to be a success and a money-maker from the start. Thorough investigation invited and no investment asked until prospect of success. It will require a capital of from $3,500 to $5,000.

Address, Shoe Manufacturer, Dept. R, Progress Station, St. Louis, Mo.

WISCONSIN, THE BUTTER AND CHEESE STATE OF THE UNION

Wisconsin supplies one-sixth of the butter and nearly one-half of the cheese produced in this country.

The dairy cow should be the emblem of the Round Lake Country, which in the future, figuratively speaking, is to produce rivers of milk, lakes of cream and mountains of butter and cheese.

Every recognized authority on dairying says, the Round Lake Country has all the required conditions to make it the greatest producer of cheese of any part of the state.

Go in for dairying in the Round Lake Country where you can buy a cow for $6.50 to $20.00 per acre, close to your market, where you have good roads, neighbors, schools, churches and all the conveniences of life.

See me today about this.

LANDS.

MR. ADVERTISER—For results, three things must be considered: circulation, class of readers and price. The Reporter gives you an greater measure of service for less money than any other newspaper in Northern Iowa. The Reporter is read by 30,000 people every issue. Advertising rates one-half cent a word each insertion. Cash with order. Reporter, Waterloo, Ia. 40-6t.

FAIRIS FOR SALE—Southwest Iowa is one of the richest agricultural districts in the world, and the Daily Nonpareil is practically the only daily paper read in this territory. It is issued morning, evening and Sunday, and with its 17,000 circulation covers the field like a blanket. If you want results from your advertisement, try it. One cent a word for the first insertion, and one-half cent a word for each subsequent insertion. Classified in display, 25c an inch. The Daily Nonpareil, Council Bluffs, Iowa. 45-4t.

MISCELLANEOUS.

HOUSE CLEANING made easy by ordering the Auto Vacuum Cleaner. Hotels, public buildings, halls, and offices a specialty. F. H. Porter. Phone 413 white, or People's Drug Store. 44-4t.
